A sibling of a broken sibling, one can move on to the future, the other cannot escape the past.

Bio:

The Brother and The Sister are to siblings that are either twins or a year or two apart from each other. They once lived a regular life in a regular family, until one day they lost their parents in an unexplained incident, they were traumatized by the incident and were left orphaned.

Afterwards they stayed with their aunt's, but the trauma of the incident changed them. One taken a lot from it, but can keep going and move on, but the other will be left broken, unable to function and developed mental disorders, damaging themselves and other. It has gotten so bad, that they had to be taken to a place where they try to treat their mental health.

The sibling who can move on often pay visits to their broken sibling, seeing if they are okay and ensuring them that they are not alone, it helped the broken sibling a little, but everyday they go further and further away from reality.

One day, when the sibling who can move paid another visit, the broken sibling offer them a way to understand their pain, the other sibling wasn't sure about the offer and thought it was another delusion due to the broken sibling's mental health.

Once they leave, the sibling who can move on saw their reality warping around and find themselves in some weird dysfunctional version of the hospital, unsure about where they are or if they can get out of the place, the sibling moves forward to discover the mystery of this sudden occurrence.

Appearance:

Both siblings have brown hair, black eyes, similar skin, and similar body shape.

What differs between the two is their clothes and their hair.

The Brother has short brown, messy hair.

The Sister has long brown hair that goes down to her neck.

The Brother wears a short sleeve shirt over a long sleeve shirt and trousers.

The Sister wears a short sleeve, long skirt dress, with white details and blue shoes.

Their clothes colour is customisable for the player's choice.

The unchosen gender will have similar clothing to the brother, but the colour is white and grey.

Out-universe information:

Brother/Sister is a playable character for a psychological thriller game, where the player can choose the character's gender, either Brother or Sister. The story focusing on two characters and the unchosen gender will play the role of being the protagonist's guide and play a main part of the game's story. Similar to how in the game Costume Quest, whoever gender you pick, the other gender will be the damsel in distress that you are trying to rescue throughout the game.

For this game, the twist is that the Sibling who can move on is the Broken sibling, and their real sibling died in the incident along with their parents, as they cannot let go of their sibling to the point where they believe they are the other sibling.

The game ends with them either accepting that their family is gone and move on or stay delusional in a more comfortable yet horrid reality for the rest of their life.
