You will use them to recreate the pictures that are also provided to you. You can utilize them as you see fit. But each picture will require 4 or more blocks.

Let's start off with some easy puzzles.

This is Bubbles. Bubbles would like to visit you in the fourth dimension. To get there, you must recreate his body with the blocks.

You will need 6 red blocks. Please grab 6 red blocks.

I have presented my 4D piece in the previous class, it was a video piece that is meant to simulate childhood schizophrenia developing and how they are dealing with it. It is styled after what it's like using a view-master, a toy which lets you view a collection of photos by using a lever to switch between them, similar to using a camera. Each photo has audio that comes along with it.

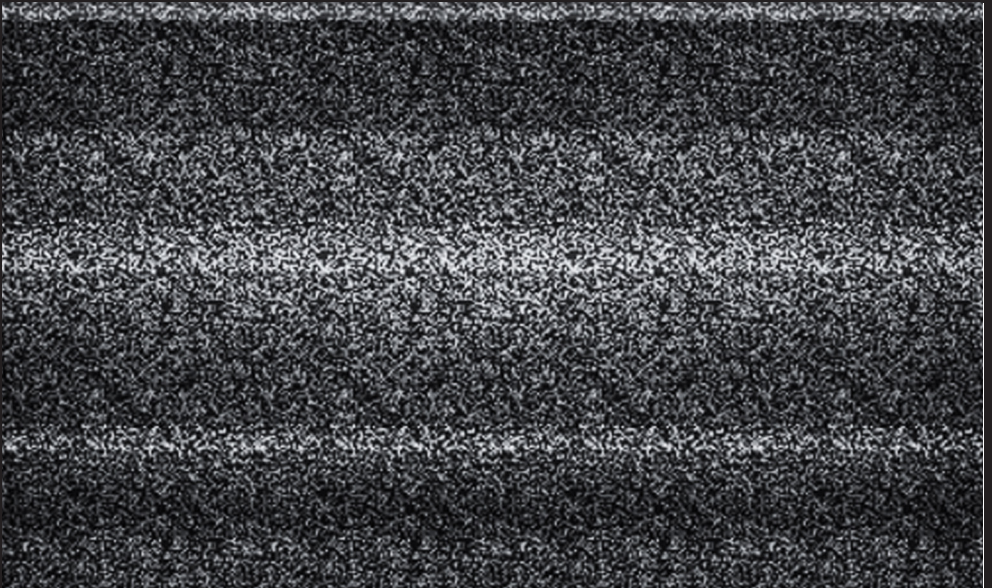

The audio is made by me sound bashing a variety of sound effects together to create not music but some form of ambience to elevate the feeling that I'm trying to create.

Closed-eye hallucinations and closed-eye visualizations (CEV) are hallucinations that occur when one's eyes are closed or when one is in a darkened room. They should not be confused with phosphenes, perceived light and shapes when pressure is applied to the eye's retina, or some other non-visual external cause stimulates the eye. Some people report CEV under the influence of psychedelics; these are reportedly of a different nature than the "open-eye" hallucinations of the same compounds. Similar hallucinations that occur due to loss of vision are called "visual release hallucinations".

Levels of CEV perception [edit]

See also: Creative visualization

There are five known levels of CEV perception which can be achieved either through chemical stimuli or through meditative relaxation techniques. ^[medical citation needed] Level 1 and 2 are very common and often happen every day. It is still normal to experience level 3, and even level 4; however, only a small percentage of the population does this without psychedelic drugs, meditation or extensive visualization training.

I don't recall getting much criticism during my previous class discussions. Rather, it's a lot of back and forth conversing to gather ideas for how I may continue on with my project and it's research. I had originally wanted to focus on the subject abstract art since it involves the act of derooting a painting to understand it's meaning. But with abstract art, it's an endless spiral because of how of much is left up to interpretation and how simple the presentation is. We went over how art is used to tell stories but as well as it can be re contextualized to fit another narrative.

Underlying Thought Disorder

'Thought disorder' is a mental health condition that affects a person's ability to think and write clearly and logically. They can manifest as disorganized thinking, difficulty concentrating or maintaining a train of thought, delusions or more. It is most commonly associated with schizophrenia and schizoaffective disorders but it can also be a symptom of bipolar disorder and depression.

Types of Thought Disorders:

- Alogia: Those with alogia typically present reduced speech output or an inability to produce coherent and meaningful speech. It is common among those with schizophrenia.
- Tangentiality: Those with tangentiality typically veer off-topi when speaking and need help maintaining a coherent train of

The word "deractinate" derived from France during the 1500s when Latin was their primary language.

It is a combination of "dis" (lack of), and "radicina" (root).

This earlier iteration of "deractinate" means to literally dig up a plant by its roots.

The word later made its way into the english language during the 1800s, the meaning to "up root" something became metaphorical rather than literal. It is now most commonly used to describe the eradication of a particular group
