Branson's Celebration City offers new attractions

GO AND DO

Celebration City at Branson, Mo., announces a new lineup for 2006, including the extreme sport of mountainboarding, interactive Movie Magic that involves kids in Hollywood blockbusters, and the introduction of two 2006 VeggieTales movies.

Celebration City brings the newest extreme sport to Branson. Guests get an exclusive chance to see the high-flying outdoor mountainboarding in the Big Air! stunt show at Celebration City's new arena. Fans can watch athletes get "huge airtime" as they pull off massive stunts on ramps and rails.

Visitors to Celebration City this summer will get the chance to "play Hollywood" in Movie Magic, a live stage show where kids produce and star in Hollywood films such as "Rocky," "Agent Cody Banks," "Legally Blonde" and "Pink Panther," while learning about the science and magic of movie making.

Celebration City presents Veggie-style fun with the premiere tour of two new VeggieTales movies — "Sheerluck Holmes and the Golden Ruler" and "LarryBoy and the Bad Apple." These animated veggies are known for award-winning movies and videos with positive lessons about friendship and honesty. Kids can also meet the stars of the movies, Bob the Tomato and Larry the Cucumber.

In 2006, Celebration City offers a new value price of $19.99 for unlimited use of more than 20 rides and attractions, including the spectacular $3 million nighttime special effects show, Ignite the Night. This high-tech dramatic presentation includes water cannons and pyrotechnics that accentuate a story of the American spirit. The show is
